Poland: Jaruzelski, Siwicki Meet Szczecin Soldiers, Workers

LD232226

Szczecin Television Service in Polish 1710 GMT 23 Nov 83 (tentative)

((Text)) ((Reporter)) Army General Wojciech Jaruzelski, first secretary of the Central Committee and chairman of the National Defense Commission, was in Szczecin today. Accompanied by National Defense Minister General Florian Siwicki, Gen Jaruzelski went to the assembly square, where the commanding officer of the Captain Ottokar Jarosz Fifth Mechanized Regiment from Kolobrzeg, Lieutenant Colonel Lis, read the order to the assembled regiment. ((march music played))

((Lis)) Special order of the minister of national defense of 22 November 1983.

Generals and admirals, officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers, men:

In accordance with the resolution of the Sejm of the Polish People's Republic I am taking over the post of Minister of National Defense. The armed forces of the Polish People's Republic, successors and continuators of the most illustrious Polish armed traditions, have traversed a long and glorious road, made a contribution worthy of a modern type army toward national and social liberation and the reconstruction and development of the country, and successfully guard our borders and the security of socialist Poland. They have always carried out their tasks with the highest patriotic responsibility. Under the many years of leadership of Army Gen Wojciech Jaruzelski, with his outstanding personal participation, constantly bettering and developing themselves, they have grown to be an army that is modern in every respect, strong in its unity and moral ideals, with good armament and technological equipment, high level of training, efficient systems of command and leadership, and, above all, with a lasting bond with the nation.

The Sejm of the Polish People's Republic has appointed Army General Wojciech Jaruzelski chairman of the National Defense Commission, Commander of the Armed Forces of the Polish People's Republic. We are proud that an eminent statesman has come out of our ranks under whose command we shall continue to perform our soldier's duty.

Soldiers! The prosperous, safe future of People's Poland depends now more than ever before on a harmonious activity by all Poles, their civic attitude and productive work. It is our duty to guarantee this future effectively and unfailingly. This is ensured by the daily selfless service of the soldiers. In the face of mounting imperialistic threats, we shall be constantly improving further our combat capability and readiness, we shall be consolidating the ideological, moral and political closeness of our ranks, and enriching and expanding our fraternal cooperation with the Soviet Army and other allied armies of the states of the Warsaw Pact.

BNHN We will ceaselessly consolidate the foundations of our power and the bonds with the community, to make a soldierly contribution to the multiplication of the achievements of People's Poland, the development of all domains of life of the nation and the country and the consistent implementation of the socialist transformations outlined by the party.

BNHN We will loyally serve our homeland, the Polish People's Republic. Together with the special directive of the chairman of the National Defense Commission this order is to be read before all units of the Polish Army.

Attention!

BNHN ((Reporter)) The order was signed by the National Defense Minister Gen Florian Siwicki.

BNHN The floor was then taken by Gen Wojciech Jaruzelski, who said among other things: ((begin Jaruzelski recording)) I stand today in front of you on this Szczecin soil because I want to stress by this symbolic act what a great historical victory and attainment for People's Poland was the regaining of the Western lands of the Piasts, our just borders, 40 years ago. I want to stress in this way that the enemy will never dare to set his foot in here, that the soldier of People's Poland stands and will stand guard over this, in brotherly, allied ranks with the Soviet Army and with other Warsaw Pact armies.

BNHN I stand on this soil to express gratitude and respect to the workers, peasants, intellectuals who have been raising Poland from the ruins and ashes, who raised this land, who raised old Polish Szczecin. Keep firm guard at the Odra River, my dear soldiers. Be worthy of the best traditions of Polish arms.

Long live your famous Fifth Regiment! Long live the Polish People's Army! Long live Poland! ((applause))

((Reporter)) This the military cemetery in Siekierki.

Subsequently, the first secretary of the Central Committee of the party, Prime Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski paid a visit to the Szczecin shipyard named after Adolf Warski.

((passage indistinct)) ((Presumably Jaruzelski))

I wanted here, in front of this unit, to pass the duty to gen Siwicki. ((Passage indistinct)) to visit the soldiers, and not visit other soldiers, the workers, especially the shipyard workers, would have been unacceptable. You have your good ambassador, comrade miskiewicz who always talks about the hard work in the shipyard. ((passage indistinct)) How is the work going in your shipyard?

((Unidentified speaker, presumably a worker)) Comrade General, when one is working one often complains. But when we finally launch the ship, there is great satisfaction. ((passage indistinct))

((Jaruzelski)) On one hand they are criticizing us because there is not enough democracy, not enough freedom when we act against rogues and parasites.

((Worker)) One can see the scale of freedom and democracy in the West on television.

((Jaruzelski)) Yes, people are ruthlessly beaten up there. We can see it clearly. ((passage indistinct))
